

Recruiter in Charge, Recruiting Office Washington, DC

Senior Chief Petty Officer Brynn Simonetti assumed duties as the Recruiter in Charge at Coast Guard Recruiting Office Washington, DC, on July 1, 2019. She enlisted in the Coast Guard on June 29, 2004 and advanced to Senior Chief Petty Officer on October 1, 2019.

Most recently, Senior Chief Simonetti was assigned to DCMS-8, at CGHQ. Other tours include CG Station Eatons Neck, MLC (t), USCGC Morgenthau, and the USCGC James Rankin. Senior Chief Simonetti's achievements are two Commendation Medals, three Achievement Medals, and she was selected as the recipient of the Angela McShan Inspirational Leadership Award in 2018.

Senior Chief Simonetti has two children, and a husband she loves dearly. She has been married to her husband for over 12 years. Her eldest daughter Leah who is six, loves horses, reading and dancing. Her youngest child Lydia who is three, enjoys fashion shows, running fast, and bunnies.

Senior Chief Simonetti on her off time enjoys horseback riding, gardening, mentoring, and being an active member in her communities Synagogue. Some of her goals in life are to raise two happy and successful children, help implement a Coast Guard wide mentoring program, complete her Masters in Taxation, and become a Certified Public Accountant.

"I'm excited to potentially serve as your CPOA National Treasurer. In my 17 year career as a Storekeeper I have a proven record of providing accountability and organizational skills to our service. I have an enthusiasm for financial accountability and service to my shipmates. In this role I look forward to having an active way to directly impact the future of the CPOA and a direct role in assisting our shipmates in times of need. My goal is to connect with the many chapters to assist them in their bookkeeping and coordinating ideas on how we can serve our CPOA chapters more effectively. I am grateful for this opportunity to put my name in the hat for this role, with the hope of serving our CPOA members and our shipmates in need."